

From the people of our beautiful country Honduras, located in the heart of Central America, goes a message of peace, hope and well-being to all of you gathered there. It is our most profound desire that all people of the world are able to live together in harmony, sharing through our music, literature, arts and crafts the incredible richness of our multiculturalism, growing in the strength of caring for and nurturing our most precious possession: our soul. May God bring us all the peace and contentment we so wish for.
